ORDER

During South West monsoon (01.06.2012 to 30.09.2012), the State has received an average rainfall of 631.1 mm as against normal rainfall of 624.1 mm, with a deviation of (-)1%. However, in Ananthapur district the deficit was (-)24% until 28.09.2012, when heavy rainfall was recorded due to a low pressure system that developed from 29.09.2012 to 3.10.2012 reducing the deficit to (-)19%, as on 30.09.2012.

2. As per the Andhra Pradesh Handbook for Management of Drought, 1995 and Manual for Drought Management published by Ministry of Agriculture, Govt of India, 2009, the proposals for declaration of drought should be examined with reference to the following norms and the Collectors should send specific report to the government taking Mandals as a unit:

- a) Deficiency in rainfall of (-) 25% and above in Mandals where the annual normal rainfall is more than 1000 mm., followed by (-) 20% and above in Mandals where the annual normal rainfall is 750 mm to 999.9 mm and (-)15% and above in Mandals where the annual normal rainfall is less than 750 mm i.e 749.9 mm.
- b) Compression/reduction in the cropped areas of 50% and above under all principal crops.
- c) Normal reduction in crop yields of 50% and above, comparative with average yields. However, in the case of high input oriented (seed rate heavy and cost also prohibitive) crops like groundnut, Bengal gram, hybrid sunflower etc. reduction in yield of 40% and above also should be reckoned as affected by drought, yield compared with previous 5 years.
- d) Dry spells and its impact on crop damages.
- e) Normalized Difference Vegetation Index (NDVI)***
- f) Moisture Adequacy Index (MAI)****

* The National Agricultural Drought Assessment and Monitoring System (NADAMS), instituted by the National Remote Sensing Centre (NRSC), issues a bi-weekly drought bulletin and monthly reports on detailed crop and seasonal condition during the kharif season. These present the Normalized Difference Vegetation Index (NDVI) and Normalized Difference Wetness Index (NDWI) from the data obtained from National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration- Advanced Very Wide Field Sensor (WIFS) data. These reports provide quantitative information on sowings, surface water spread and District/Tehsil/Taluk/Block level crop condition assessment along with spatial variation in terms of maps. At present, 11 agriculturally important and drought-vulnerable States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Haryana, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Orissa, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh are covered through these reports.

The values obtained for a given NDVI always ranges from -1 to +1. A negative number or a number close to zero means no vegetation and a number close to +1 (0.8-0.7) represents luxuriant vegetation. For declaring drought, States need to obtain NDVI values through the NADAMS. All the above-mentioned States receive NADAMS reports on regular basis. Those States which do not receive the report could approach the NRSC for receiving the information. It is necessary that the States declare drought only when the deviation of NDVI value from the normal is 0.4 or less. However, the NDVI value needs to be applied in conjunction with other indicators and values. The NDVI must not be invoked for the declaration of drought in isolation from the other two key indicators.

** Moisture Adequacy Index (MAI), which is based on a calculation of weekly water balance, is equal to the ratio (expressed as a percentage) of Actual Evapotranspiration (AET) to the Potential Evapotranspiration (PET) following a soil – water balancing approach during a cropping season., MAI is obtained by using the following equation:

$$MAI = AET/PE$$

where, AE is actual evapotranspiration and PE is potential evapotranspiration (in %) during different phenological stages of a crop.

Water balance calculation takes into account the soil characteristic, crop growth period and water requirements of major crops. Drought is specified crop wise on a real-time basis. MAI values are critical to ascertain agricultural drought. The State agriculture department needs to calculate the MAI values on the basis of data available to it and provide it to the Department of Relief and Disaster Management, which would ascertain that MAI values conform to the intensity of moderate drought as shown in the table above before drought is declared. As mentioned above, MAI values need to be applied in conjunction with other indicators such as rainfall figures, are under sowing, and NDVI values.

3. The District Collectors were instructed in the Video Conference held by Hon'ble Minister for Revenue with the District Collectors on 05.10.2012, to submit the proposals as per the above criteria for declaration of Drought affected Mandals.
